

Personal Spaceflight Federation President To Speak At Major Space Industry Forum

Bretton Alexander Will Highlight Recent Progress at 2009 International Space Development Conference

Washington, D.C. (April 2009) – The President of the Personal Spaceflight Federation (PSF), Bretton Alexander, will be an honored speaker at the National Space Society’s 28th Annual International Space Development Conference, to be held May 28th – 31st in Orlando, Florida.

At this major industry forum, Mr. Alexander will provide an update on recent progress being made by the commercial human spaceflight industry, and the potential for future growth.

The first day of the conference, on May 28th, has the theme “Commercial Space.” As the nation looks forward to the 40th anniversary of the first moon landing in July of this year, the members of the Personal Spaceflight Federation are honored to continue the tradition of exploration through a robust program of commercial human spaceflight.

About the Personal Spaceflight Federation

The mission of the Personal Spaceflight Federation (PSF) is to promote the development of commercial human spaceflight, pursue ever higher levels of safety, and share best practices and expertise throughout the industry. PSF member organizations include commercial developers and operators of spaceships, spaceports, and orbital spaceflight facilities. The PSF is governed by a board of directors, composed of the entrepreneurs and CEO-level officers of the member companies. For more information, please visit www.personalspaceflight.org or contact Executive Director John Gedmark at 202-349-1121.